My journey

Yes, I am a person who pushed the restart button any time a bugg happened on my PC. But while i was studing psychology, I realized that I wanted to do something more creative, challenging and different. So i started learning about web design. At some point I became interested in web development so I started learning that too. I was more and more impressed with what you can do with PC, creativity and little knowledge of when and what to google (wich i majored). Beside practical skills, few more skills are creative and critical thinking, and high ability of problem solving. I think of myself as a smart worker. I love drawing, reading. also what else interest me is snowboarding, swimming, photography.
